BEEN AT THE FAIR?

WELL, YOU HAVE MISSED A TREAT.

Grand Opening of the North Georgia Fair—Magnificent Exhibits in the Various Departments—Immense Attendance—The Attractions for the Week.

It's a success!

The fair, we mean—a big success.

At early daylight on yesterday the stream of drays and wagons commenced to trickle along the park-road and by 9 o'clock it had grown to be a swollen current, almost filling the road. It looked as if some one had taken the job of moving the whole of Atlanta to the fair grounds in one day.

THE SCENE INSIDE THE GATES.

We reached the park at about 11 o'clock and were cheered by the sight of Col. Adair in a multifold red sash issuing seven hundred orders a minute. The gateway was choked with wagons, drays and carriages, but we managed to pass through and were soon in the halls.

The rousing success of the exhibition is already assured. Every inch of space in most of the halls is taken, and much more room is needed. Even at 11 o'clock on Monday, there was more of a show than Atlanta has ever had on the best day of any previous fair.

THE ART HALL

is as things stood yesterday evening, probably the best feature of the fair. Georgia has never witnessed such a show of pictures, cosmettes, crayons, as can be seen there. A whole house is devoted to this show, and it is filled to the uttermost. Director Rice deserves great credit for having pulled this usually unimportant department into such leading prominence. He is ably assisted by Professor Nicholls. Mr. Guerry's patent gallery is a "show" in itself, and Matt O'Brien's cartoons are better than a bound volume of "Punch." Mr. Van Staveren has some fine pictures, as have Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Gregory, Mr. Motes, Mr. Fairbanks and others. Messrs. Goodman & Trimble make a fine display. We noted also a full assortment of Rogers' famous groups. The art department is infinitely superior to anything we have ever had before.

THE MERCHANT'S BAZAR is also fuller, finer and handsomer than has ever been seen in Georgia. The merchants of Atlanta appear to have been put upon their mettle, and they have made a superb show. Many of them have gone to great expense, and have fixed up very elaborately. It is probably three times as large a display in this department as was made at the last state fair.

THE LADIES' FANCY WORK

department is full and interesting. At noon on yesterday it was fuller than it was last year, and exhibitions were literally coming in by the score. We understand that thirteen afghans alone had been entered at that time—all of them very fine. All the available space was taken, and Director Howell and Mr. Reeder were constantly besieged for more room. The department was literally overflowing with articles for exhibition.

IN THE HOUSEWIFE DEPARTMENT,

we regret to say, the display was not so good. There were only four or five entries at 12 o'clock, of pickles, preserves, cookeries, etc., but it was understood that most of these entries were being held back until the last moment. We suppose this hall will be pretty well filled this morning.

THE HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

is well filled and is very interesting. Our nurserymen are making a capital show, and will be able to keep most of the prizes in this department at home. This hall is one of the most interesting on the grounds. In one corner of it we noted that the Atlanta city brewing company have one of their immense beer corks displayed. We can hardly see how this comes under the head of horticulture.

THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

is well filled. There is a finer show of buggies than ever made before, and plows, field crops, etc., without end. The machinery hall is packed to its utmost, and the busy whirr of gins, engines, and wheels gives liveliness to the scene.

IN THE POULTRY DEPARTMENT

we noted a good many coops not filled, but we learn that one man took about 70 coops out after we left the grounds. Several poultry entries were made on yesterday, and Mr. Hoyle, the director in charge, avers that he will have the coops all full, if he has to fill them with dressed poultry. The display of pigeons is extra fine. The apiary is full and interesting.

THE GREATEST SHOW

of all is made, however, in the stock department. This has never been approached in any Georgia fair. It is simply unprecedented. There has never yet been a fair in which more than half of the stalls and stables were filled. In this case, every stall is filled, and forty or fifty new ones have been built and taken. Besides this, there were fifty head of cattle yesterday that had no stalls, and none were left unoccupied for them. The stock comes from all quarters, and is of all kinds. It makes a magnificent show. There is a Tennessee bull there that Colonel Geo. Adair says is "as big as a country church."

THE RACERS AND TROTTERS.

We have had so much to say already about the racing outlook that there is little left to say. The races will be by all odds the finest ever seen this side of Nashville. The running stables are the very best ever brought this far south, and there are trotters here already with records under 2:25. There are over fifty horses here for either speed or trot, and there are several entries for each race. Every purse will be hotly contested, and the horses will be evenly matched. All sorts of pools (including French combination) will be sold by responsible parties on each race. It will be the finest turf spirit Georgians have ever had the opportunity of seeing.

THE OTHER FEATURES of the fair will be in good style, and will be put through in exact accordance with the programme. The work will be full of excitement and fun.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

The rush and commotion were so great at the grounds on yesterday that nothing could be done in the way of a regular programme. The grand stock cavalcade was not sent around the track simply because everything was in such confusion that it could not be arranged, and besides, out of all the thousands on the grounds there were probably not a hundred fellers. Everybody was busy fixing up for the display. It is said that a good many of the exhibitors worked all day Sunday in order to be ready. The base ball match did not take place, and there was no formal opening as had been at first designed. The busy crowd and confusion prevented anything of this sort. The musical programme of the day was carried out faithfully and made a fine sensation. The band is one of the finest in the regular army, and the selections were all the very best. The music will be a great improvement on what we have had before.

Despite what has been described above the fair was not half made up when we left the grounds. We counted in returning to the city forty-eight wagons and drays carrying out goods, while the cars were packed with ladies carrying bundles of lace, embroidery and fancy work. The work was continued up to a late hour last night, however, and it was believed to be certain that everything would be in order for the big crowd this morning.

What the Managers Say.

At about two o'clock we dropped into President Cox's office and asked him what he thought of the outlook.

"It is better than we expected by a great deal. You see we had to fight this senseless yellow fever panic that extended all over the continent and kept exhibitors and visitors away.

"You must not understand that I am apologizing for the fair, however. On the contrary, I am now sure that it will be much the best fair we have ever had in point of crowd, exhibition, and programme. The stock display alone will more than repay a visitor. The show of Jersey cattle is better than the south has ever seen. The races will be extra good, and, in short, we are more than satisfied with the outlook. We shall have a show that Atlanta and Georgia will be proud of. The crowd, we think, will be very large. Those who come will certainly go home delighted with the fair."

Secretary B. W. Wrenn was as hard to find as the north pole. He was surrounded by a perfect mass of people with articles to exhibit. There were ladies, farmers, jockeys and merchants, all pressing forward to see their "tags." At length we struck him and we found him happy.

"It is the biggest thing that Georgia has ever seen," he said. "You cannot write the facts, no matter what you say. It is a glorious success. Every department is full to overflowing, except possibly one or two, and they will fill up to-day. The crowd will be larger than anybody has expected. I fully calculate on having 15,000 to 20,000 here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. You just go ahead—you've struck something at last that you can't outwrite. So say the best you know."

The feeling of buoyancy and cheerfulness pervaded the whole directory. There can be no doubt that the first exhibition of the North Georgia Fair association will be the best that Atlanta has ever had.

The Crowd in the City.

The increase in our population was markedly visible on yesterday. The trains of Saturday and Sunday were smartly crowded, but the trains of yesterday were packed. It is estimated that fully 5,000 strangers are in the city already. Most of these are persons who have come to spend the week with friends. The transient crowds will come in to-day and to-morrow. While there are great numbers who have stayed away because of the yellow fever panic, the accounts sent back by those who have come and have seen for themselves that there is not a trace of disease here, will reassure the stay-aways and bring them in by Thursday and Friday.

Altogether, the outlook for a crowd is much brighter and fuller than it was possibly thought it could be.

The Pooling System.

The adventurers with their loose change were out in large numbers at the Kimball last evening "paying" their respects to the "Pool Box." The selling of pools on to-day's races began at 8 o'clock. Bulletined near the pool-seller were the announcements of to-day's races, with the following entries:

First race—trial purse of $200, of which second horse to receive $50, for all ages—dash of one mile—Jack Shepherd, Bill Dillon, Esiliah, Springlette, Bonnie Itaska, Clemmie G., and Orphan Girl.

Second race—stake for three-year olds, $25 entrance, $300 added, of which second to receive $50 out of stakes—dash of one mile and a half—Bergamot, Glenmore, and Speculation.

Third race—trotting, 2:50 class, purse of $200; first horse $125, second $50, third $25 —mile heats, three in five to harness—Bay Stranger, Ripton, Lizzie 2d, and Jim Harris.

The betting was quite spirited, and a large number of pools were disposed of. The pools, however, were small, ranging from $10 to $15.

In the first race Esiliah seemed to be the first choice, with Clemmie G. second and Bonnie Itaska third.

In the second race Bergamot was the favorite, with Speculation next. Occasionally Glenmore would take second place in the betting.

In the third race Bay Stranger was the favorite by heavy odds. Sometimes the betting would be two to one in favor of the speedy bay gelding. The pool selling closed at 10:30, and it was announced would be continued this evening.

The above were the entries that it was said were made by 9 o'clock. Our reporter was authoritatively informed that the entries did not close until 12 o'clock last night, and that one or two additional entries had been made in each race. If this be so a change in the complexion of things may take place to-day when the entries are officially announced. We will await the result with some degree of curiosity. The winning horse may still be in the dark.

Programme.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1878.

Gates open at 8 o'clock for visitors.

At 8:30 the band of the 18th United States infantry will commence the rendition of choice selections from classic music.

There will be, commencing at 11 o'clock exactly, a procession of the entire horse department around the track in the following order:

1. Race horses.
2. Thoroughbred horses.
3. Native horses.
4. Saddle horses.
5. Harness horses.
6. Mules.
7. Jacks and jennets.

At 12 m. the procession of the cattle department around the track will commence. These processions should not be missed, as they afford the finest opportunity of seeing the stock—the best collection ever seen upon the grounds.

At 1:30 horses will be called, and at 2 the racing will commence as follows:

RUNNING.

First race—Trial purse $200, of which second to have $50; for all ages. Dash of one mile.

RUNNING.

Second race—Stake for three year olds; $25 entrance, play or pay; $300 added, of which second to receive $50, out of stakes. Dash of one mile and a half.

TROTTING.

Third race—2:50 class; purse $200; $125 to first; $50 to second; $25 to third; mile heats, three in five, in harness.

The band will play at close intervals during the entire day, and render fine selections in their well-known high style of art.

W. B. COX, President. B. W. WRENN, Secretary.

FAIR NOTES.

Our fair is a grand success.

Tickets are only fifty cents.

Races every day during the fair.

The halls were filled up well yesterday.

Fine racing may be expected this week.

Crowds will go out on the street cars today.

The hotels were as lively as crickets last night.

The great Rex festivity will pack the streets for Friday night.

The full blood cattle are very much admired.

The halls are all fully filled with the choicest exhibitions ever seen here.

Three excellent races this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The show of blooded cattle will be the best ever seen in the state.

All the halls will be gotten in thorough order to-morrow.

We have the best arranged fair grounds in the south.

Hundreds of entries were made at the secretary's office.

Twenty-eight running horses reached this city by special train Saturday.

The race track is as smooth as a floor and as clean as a whistle.

The negro foot race for $25 in gold will have forty entries.

From all the best county fairs we will get a good supply of fine articles.

Secretary Wrenn and his assistants are up to their necks in work.

There are about sixty running and trotting horses at the fair grounds.

The pond at the fair ground is five feet deep and holds plenty of water.

The directors' stand is furnished and ready for occupants.

It is claimed that there is a hog at the fair as big as a cow.

The saloons at the fair grounds have opened up for business.

The Rex colors are green and gold. Let all our merchants display the royal colors.

Our railroads will bring in large crowds of passengers to-day.

The base ball contest was, by request, postponed to another day to be named in to-morrow's paper.

Oglethorpe park was crowded from morning till night yesterday with visitors.

Several droves of cattle were furnished with quarters at the fair grounds yesterday.

The crowd will come in to-day from the four points of the compass.

Negroes are training for the big run of Saturday for $25.

The night train on the Western and Atlantic railroad brought in a large number of visitors.

All of the railroads will sell excursion tickets to persons desiring to witness the Rex pageant.

Mr. John Etawah, of Griffin, well known in horse-racing circles, is in the city, for the purpose of witnessing the races.

Why don't His Royal Highness issue a proclamation congratulating his royal subjects upon having a fine frost?

Race horse men now in the city who attended Newnan fair did not come back very highly pleased with the trip.

There will be registering turnstiles at all the gates, and we will publish the number of persons admitted every day.

Everything is ready. The horn will blow and the procession, elephant and all, will march around.

From the looks of things yesterday at the grounds one might think that the fair had already opened.

The Centennial gate No. 45 is a great curiosity. It is stated that it admitted more passengers to the centennial than any other gate.

Hop at the Kimball house to-night; comedies at the opera house; the Atlanta amateurs at Concordia hall, and several other attractions will occur to-night.

There are already 450 stalls engaged for cattle and horses. Nearly all are full, and others will be made to accommodate the great rush.

We understand the board of edustion has been requested to give the children holiday for one day to allow them to visit the fair. We think it is a good move.

Colonel H. L. Travis, of Griffin, owner of the invincible trotting horse, John Kimball Jackson, is in the city, looking after his slice in the racing premiums at our fair.

Mr. George C. Douglass, special agent of the Underwriter's insurance company, is lying very ill at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Godfrey, on Whitehall street.

We will be able to publish in a day or two the line of march of the street pageant, and it is earnestly expected that the citizens will illuminate their stores and residences.

The trains on the Western and Atlantic railroad will run every fifteen minutes, and so will the street cars. There will be very easy access to the grounds, and they will be crowded every day.

Every night during the fair the famous Thirteenth infantry band will give concerts of superb music in the arcade of the Kimball house. There will also be hops in the superb ball-room every night during the fair.

One of our most prominent tuftmen at the race course remarked, yesterday, that he was most agreeably surprised to see such a fine track. Another called it the finest half-mile track in America, while others spoke of it in the highest terms of praise.

The Georgia State Fair.

MACON, October 21.—The Georgia State fair will open here on the 29th instant, just one week from to-day. The grounds and race track are among the finest in the south and are in the best condition. The premiums amounting to four thousand dollars will be offered, and about eighty horses will be entered. Senator Thurman will speak here during the fair. Dr. Carver will shoot every day. Large quantities of articles have arrived from the north and west. The indications are good for a large and unprecedented attendance. There is not a single case of yellow fever in the state, and travel is extended all over the state, and all danger removed from along the lines of western travel.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

LONDON, October 21.—The Times' correspondent at Constantinople says the whole story of an Afghan envoy to the porte is untrue.

COPENHAGEN, October 21.—It is semi-officially announced that the betrothal of Princess Thyria, of Denmark, to the Duke of Cumberland, will be celebrated early in November.

LONDON, October 21.—The German bark Ellen Richmers, from Greenock, September 28th, for Wilmington, N. C., has arrived at Falmouth, having lost bulwarks, stanchions, sails and a boat, and had her deck houses smashed.

Special dispatches to the Constitution.

LONDON, October 21, 6 P. M.—The stock markets left off steadier upon a contradiction of the rumors afloat regarding the suspension of large Liverpool firms.

PARIS, October 22.—Count Von Beust, the new Austrian ambassador, has arrived here.

GENOA, October 22.—Two and a half millions of francs forwarded to Ancona by the national bank have been stolen en route. Three employees of the bank have been arrested for the theft.

PARIS, October 21.—Count De Paris has sent to Minister Noyes one thousand francs as a contribution to the yellow fever fund.

ROME, October 21.—It is rumored that Premier Cairoli will himself take the ministry of foreign affairs made vacant by the resignation of Count Corti.

MADRID, October 21.—The Epoca publishes a letter dated Tangier, October 11th, stating that the United States representative has been publicly insulted by Moors, and the offenders have not yet been punished.

LONDON, October 21.—A dispatch from Simla to Reuter's telegram company confirms the report that the ameer's reply is unconciliatory and unsatisfactory.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 21.—The sultan has authorized Baker Pasha to employ forty thousand men to complete the defensive lines of Constantinople.

VIENNA, October 22.—The New Free Press complains that the export of Hungarian wheat is almost at a standstill, partly in consequence of Americans underselling the Hungarian markets.

LONDON, October 22.—The Post's Berlin dispatch says the Russian government objects to the ameer's envoy interviewing the czar.

LONDON, October 22.—A dispatch to the Standard from Pesth states that Herr Tissear, speaking at a club of the government party, said that as the government never had any intention of sharing with Russia in the partition of Turkey or of going to war to oppose it, it is clear that henceforth Austro-Hungaria will not only have Russia for an enemy, but some other powers. He declared also, that with every sympathy for the heroic bravery of the Turks, he could not defend their administration. The occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina was undertaken in order to destroy Sclavism, which was threatening the monarchy, and to facilitate the regeneration of Turkey.

Sentenced for Life.

NEW YORK, October 21.—John O. Lynch was sentenced to imprisonment for life today for killing Michael Clifton. Clifton found Lynch in company with his wife in his apartments, and, seizing him, struck him behind the ear. Lynch rose partially stunned and left the premises. He shortly returned with a hatchet and struck Clifton a fatal blow on his head.

The Turfmen.

BALTIMORE, October 21.—The number of turfmen and visitors who have already arrived here to attend the Pimlico races, which commence to-morrow, is greater than for several years past. The tracks are said to be in excellent condition. The pool selling to-night at Barnum's was numerously attended, but betting was slow, and the pools sold very small.

The Fastest of His Make.

NEW YORK, October 21.—The new steamship Saratoga, built at John Roach's shipyard, Chester, Pa., for James E. Ward & Co., of this city, to run between New York and Havana, arrived this morning and had about one hundred guests on board. She is very handsomely finished and is probably the fastest sailer Roach has ever turned out.

The Dead.

Special dispatches to The Constitution.

COLUMBUS, O., October 22.—The Right Rev. Sylvester H. Rosencrans, bishop of Columbus, died to-night.

LEIPZIG, October 22.—Professor Gustave Hasenet, an eminent jurist, is dead.

LONDON, October 22.—Jas. Johnstone, the proprietor of the London Standard is dead.

THE FAILING SCOURGE

A WANT OF MATERIAL TO FEED UPON.

Immediate Help Wanted for the Atlanta Hospital in Chattanooga — Forty-four Deaths in New Orleans—The Weather Turning Warmer Again.

CHATTANOOGA, October 21.—During the 24 hours ending at four p. m., there were three deaths and seven new cases, five colored. Refugees continue to return in spite of all warnings, and an increase of new cases is expected. The weather is warm and cloudy.

MOBILE, October 21.—From noon of Saturday to Sunday at noon, there were three deaths and seven new cases here, and from Sunday at noon until twelve o'clock to-day, one death and eleven new cases. Forty cases are now under treatment.

NEW ORLEANS, October 21.—The weather is clear and warm; 31 new cases and 44 deaths.

MEMPHIS, October 21.—The weather is growing warmer. From six last night until twelve to-day fourteen orders for interments are reported by the undertakers. Among the dead are Joseph Townsend, C. R. Redford, Henry Brown, Fred Heminger, Miss Emma Crumples, Daniel Lake and Louis Yegga. The Memphis and Charleston railroad re-opens to-day for the transaction of business. The Steamer Belle of Memphis, from St. Louis, passed down last night.

HAMILTON, ONT., Oct. 21.—An influential meeting was held here to-day to take steps to render aid to the sufferers. One thousand dollars was immediately subscribed, and ward committees were appointed to canvass the city. The churches will be asked to take up special collections. A collection in the Church of the Ascension yesterday amounted to $68.

CINCINNATI, October 21.—Two more deaths from yellow fever at Gallipolis, Ohio—Joseph Skinner, farmer, and Samuel Curry, a young lad. There are six cases, but all convalescent. A heavy frost has put in an appearance. It is probable there will be no further spread of the disease.

THE VERY LATEST.

Special dispatches to The Constitution.

BYRAM, Miss., October 22.—Secretary R. W. Holcomb, of the relief committee, died last night. No new cases.

BAY ST. LOUIS, October 22.—Colonel W. B. List, vice-president of the relief committee, died of fever to-day.

MEMPHIS, October 22.—The city has been thronged with people to-day, many being refugees who returned, thinking that after the frosts that have fallen all danger is passed. The greater number, however, were parties applying for relief, which after the 25th inst. will cease to be extended to able-bodied persons.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

PHILADELPHIA, October 22.—The body of a woman, who jumped overboard from a steamboat on the Delaware river on Friday and was drowned, has been recognized as Mrs. Sophia Hubert, of New Orleans. The deceased had come north to contest the will of her sister, who died recently in Camden, N. J. During her absence from New Orleans two of her children died in that city from yellow fever. It is supposed that the excitement led to her suicide.

THE CATHOLIC CONTRIBUTION.

Circular from Rt. Rev. Bishop Gross.

To the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese—Some few weeks ago we made an appeal to you in behalf of the sufferers from the yellow fever. We cannot refrain from expressing to you the great pleasure we experienced at your hearty response to our appeal. It was a striking proof of that wonderful obedience which, in this age of license, you manifested as Catholics to the ecclesiastical authorities. This occasion also brought to light how brightly is burning in your hearts that queen of all virtues—beautiful charity. Not only were the churches crowded during the Triduum of prayer which we ordered, but very many also approached the holy sacraments of penance and the eucharist. You have also given a substantial proof of your charity in the handsome collection taken up and forwarded to our vicar general. We have so far received one thousand and forty-eight dollars and ninety cents. We have divided the above amount into three equal portions, and have sent to New Orleans to the Catholic relief committee, $336 30; to Vicksburg to Rt. Rev. W. Elder, $336 30, and to Memphis, to Rt. Rev. P. Feehan, $336 30, and we are sure that your charitable aid will be distributed to the needy and suffering without distinction of nationality or creed. There remains in our possession forty dollars, which we hope will be augmented by further remittances, and will be duly forwarded. In conclusign, we beg of you to thank God for having preserved our diocese from the terrible scourge of pestilence, and pray that by a life of fidelity to His commandments, you may always draw down the blessing of God on our beloved Georgia.

†WILLIAM,
Bishop of Savannah.

SAVANNAH, October 12, 1878.

Four Fevers at Work.

New Orleans Price-Current.

In connection with this matter it must not be overlooked that the faculty agree in ascribing to the present epidemic a complex character, three or even four diseases operating distinctly or conjointly among us:

First—The yellow fever proper.
Second—Intermittent fever.
Third—Remittent fever.
Fourth—Pernicious fever.

The first is generally believed to have been of foreign origin.

The rest are supposed to originate here from malaria caused by a long, protracted spell of hot weather and the exhalations from partially drained bottom lands and swamps.

In investigating this matter, the Bonnet Carre crevasse and the influence of the exhalations from the dried-up lands previously submerged by it will no doubt receive the attention of the commission.

Considering the remarkable mortality among children, who are proportionably the greatest water-drinkers, it may well be inquired whether, water being a powerful absorbent, our cisterns have not absorbed a large portion of the poison in the atmosphere. Our attention has been forcibly attracted to this subject by the report of a family living in one of the principal foci of the disease, consisting of two or three adults and five or six children having all escaped an attack, which they attribute to having used none but boiled water since the epidemic, the boiling being supposed to destroy any absorbed poison.

With regard to river towns, the immunity enjoyed by Natchez and its cause will no doubt also attract the attention of the commission.

Another Victim.

A private dispatch received in this city yesterday announced the death at Chattanooga of Mr. A. K. Parham, express messenger running between Memphis and Chattanooga. Mr. Parham was a victim of the yellow fever epidemic now prevailing in Chattanooga. He was taken with the disease Saturday last and died yesterday morning. Mr. Parham was a young man of fine moral character, and stood well in the community in which he lived. He volunteered to the position which he held when taken sick, and was standing manfully at the wheel when visited by the terrible disease. The deceased was a relative of Mr. B. B. Crew, of this city, and had many friends in Atlanta.

ATLANTA'S DUTY.

Letter from Dr. H. B. Lee — We Must Raise $500.

Below we publish a letter from Dr. H. B. Lee, one of the three noble physicians who left Atlanta to go to Chattanooga and serve the sufferers there. It will be seen that by strict economy the Atlanta hospital can be run for $35 a day by Drs. Lee, Knott and Olmstead. They will be needed there for fifteen days yet, and must have $500 more. Atlanta has established this hospital and it would be a disgrace for it to be supported by the people of Chattanooga, who have all they can do with their own projects.

The people of Atlanta must raise this money, and will do so. Atlanta has given nobly and will give more. She is equal to this emergency. The cold weather is almost here, and we will not be asked for much more aid to the sufferers, but this $500 must be raised. Contributions can be given at Phillips & Crew's, at THE CONSTITUTION office, or to Dr. Amos Fox. It is our duty to meet this call for help, and we will do it.

DR. LEE'S LETTER.

The following letter from Dr. Lee will be read with great interest:

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Oct. 18, 1878.

Amos Fox, Esq., Secretary Relief Committee—Dear Sir: I have just paid up all scores against the Atlanta hospital up to 6 p. m. to-morrow, and will have no money left. Our actual expenses for nurses, cook, etc., amount to $45.00 per day. I will try to cut that amount down to about $35.00 after this, but can't do with less. Will Atlanta stand it for a week longer? We have now twenty-three patients in hospital, and room for two more. Will probably be full to-morrow. Only five deaths to date; four of these were brought in dying, and only remained twelve to sixteen hours in hospital. As you may be surprised at the amount needed, I will state that we have sixteen employes, cook, steward and boy and thirteen nurses. We pay the nurses $3 per day, and have some trouble to get them to work at that price. Please advise me at once if Atlanta can not keep up this institution, as I don't want to run into debt and have to refer to the Chattanooga relief committee. I think $500 will see us through. Our expense for fitting up has been nearly $150. Dr. Olmstead is still improving, but is very weak. Dr. Knott hopes to go to duty to-morrow; he has not had yellow fever. Yours respectfully,

H. B. LEE, M. D.

The Public Health Association.

NEW YORK, October 21.—The executive committee of the American public health association announce the following order of business at the sixth annual meeting of that body to be held at Richmond, November 19th to the 22d next.

1. Address by the governor of Virginia.
2. Address by the president of the association.
3. Reception of the report of the commission investigating the history of the epidemic of yellow fever.
4. Reception of the other reports and records of this epidemic from all sources.
5. Reception of all other reports and communications on the epidemic and sanitary experience of the present fever.
6. Announcement of the contributions of information and the presentation of communications from members of the association, state boards of health, municipal sanitary officers, and others not relating to yellow fever.

RAILROAD WRECK.

A Bridge and Train go Down Together.

Augusta Evening News, October 19.

Yesterday evening, after 6 o'clock, as a wood train was crossing the Savannah river, about four miles from Augusta, the whole of the first span of the Howe truss bridge on the Port Royal railroad gave way and making an inclined plane, down which the engine glided with as much force as grace, and was followed by five flat cars loaded with wood.

The bridge in falling made a disastrous wreck, and the train gave it a fearfully real scene of destruction, while the sticks of wood in their dislocated and scattered condition augmented a sight that turns the heart of a railroad man to stone. The elegant bridge was considered perfectly safe and was comparatively new.

The engine was buried in mud and water and the cars are lying along the broken bridge on an inclined plane of about 45 degrees, the five uninjured boxes standing at the edge of the river and on the unbroken part of the bridge, on the Carolina side.

IN THE DEBRIS,

and falling with the engine and bridge, were the occupants of the cab—Mr. James Henry, engineer; Robt. Clark, fireman, and D. B. Gillison, wood dealer. The escape of these men was a miracle. Mr. Henry was injured in the head, and Mr. Clark slightly bruised. They escaped from death by the falling timber by being shut up in the cab, and from death by drowning by breaking through the cab and scrambling over the wreck to shore. No one else was in danger, as the hands were all safe in the rear cab.

REPAIRING THE BREAK.

As only the first span fell through, and the remainder of the bridge is intact, the damage is not very great, and will be soon repaired. Mr. D. C. Wilson went down early this morning to look after the wreck, and Roadmaster Killian is expected to-day to superintend the work. A large force was sent down this morning, and the bridge will be all right in a few days. Removing the debris and the engine is first in order, and the big work on the bridge will then commence. Several thousand dollars will cover the loss, but the worst result is the delay in freight. No through freight can be taken, and arrangements for local freight are not yet arranged.

SCENE AT THE WRECK

as a jumbled mass of cars, crossties, smokestack, bridge, mud and water, all pinned down by the thousand sticks of wood.

The place is now one of busy confusion, and the railroad boys are clearing up the rubbish. Mr. Wilson is active in his management, and the gap will soon be bridged and the Magnolia route in its usual excellent schedule time.

The bridge is thirty feet from the water level, and cost about $80,000. It was one of the best over the Savannah, and rested on stone brick tiers.

The Constitution.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 22, 1878.

THE national-greenback-labor party of Ohio polled just six and five-tenths per cent. of the entire vote. Small as the percentage was it defeated the democratic state ticket, and emboldened the gold ring generally.

WITH 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and 1,300,000,000 bushels of corn on hand, there should be no starvation either among men or beasts in this country. The trouble does not, however, relate so much to the general supply as to its distribution.

THE democrats in congress who desire economy in the affairs of the government have got the republicans on the hip. If the republicans present any factious opposition to economical or reform measures, the democrats can prevent the passage of the appropriation bills and thus compel the president to call an extra session before the end of June. An extra session involves a change in the senate that the republicans dread.

THE campaign is so near over that the democratic congressional campaign committee has closed up its business. It has distributed 1,500,000 documents, and helped on the work of reform generally. The committee claims to have reason for the belief that the ratio of democratic gains will be greater in November than it was in October. It has advices indicating a gain of two members in Michigan, and one if not two in Illinois.

WE believe we speak advisedly when we say that Colonel B. E. Green, of Dalton, has been a leading contributor to the literature of the national party in this state. He has furnished its leaders with ideas, and fought its opponents at every opportunity. And yet—so strange are the times—Mr. Green read a paper before the Episcopal congress in session at Cincinnati, in which he urged the centralization of wealth and governmental power. If Mr. Green's followers in the state are also centralists, this is the time to spread the news abroad.

SECRETARY SHERMAN has, it is true, $228,000,000 in gold on hand, but there are outstanding about $30,000,000 in coin certificates, and the called bonds falling due before January 1st amount to $40,000,000. These amounts will not leave more than $170,000,000 at the disposal of the secretary for resumption purposes. Of this amount $15,000,000 will consist of standard silver dollars, and it is said to be the intention of the secretary to begin the redemption of legal tenders with this kind of coin. Mr. Sherman is getting to be an excellent practical joker.

THE unanimity of the south in declaring that the party must repudiate Tilden is one of the most significant features of the cipher revelations. The south has never liked him since his southern claims letter, and it has been dreadfully afraid he would be forced upon them again in 1880. Who therefore hail the ciphers with thinly disguised delight, and look upon them as the special agents of a merciful Providence.—New York Tribune.

The foregoing paragraph lacks that very desirable feature of newspaper statements, commonly known as truth. Not a representative paper in the south has taken any such position as the Tribune indicates—not one. On the other hand, such papers as the Nashville American, Macon Telegraph and New Orleans Picayune have accepted Mr. Tilden's denial as satisfactory and conclusive. If the Tribune will reverse every statement in the paragraph that we have given, it will let its readers know how the south regards its cipher sensation.

The Fair and Its Outlook.

We have looked for the coming of the fair with many misgivings. The terrible yellow fever epidemic has driven all thought of southern fairs out of the head of the northern and western stockmen and implement folks. The reports of silly or designing men have gone very far towards fixing the suspicion of indigenous yellow fever on our own city. As senseless and as baseless as those rumors were, we had no doubt that they would keep thousands of visitors away, and very much reduce our exposition.

We therefore looked with many fears to the opening day of the exhibition. All those fears were happily dissipated by the outlook in the city and upon the grounds on yesterday. The fair will be a positive and genuine success in every essential point. There need be no doubts about this, and the Atlanta people may just go ahead briskly and enjoy themselves. All that they need do is to be hospitable, clever and entertaining to the visitors and the rest will be well.

The directors and the secretary of the fair deserve the very highest credit for their management of the fair and the liberality with which they have organized and planned it. They have done worthily by the city, and they deserve public thanks.

The First District.

The campaign in the first district waxes warm. The organized democrats had a grand rally in Savannah last Friday night, and much enthusiasm was manifested. We have heretofore had some doubt as to how old Chatham would cast her majority, but we have no doubt now. The accounts of the meeting which we have had from the Savannah News and from gentlemen who were present are enough to show that the gallant old county will not go back upon her democratic record. We are told that no report, however faithful, could do justice to the effort made by Julian Hartridge. A gentleman who was present and heard it from beginning to end says that the address was one of the most vivid and vigorous attacks ever made upon independentism. Mr. Hartridge called things of their right names, and told his hearers plainly and truthfully that those who voted for independent candidates were aiding and voting to resurrect and reinstate the republican party. His arguments were unanswerable, and a profounder impression was never made upon any audience. He showed how foolish now-imbecile it is to allow a faction to distract the solid front of the democracy; how absurd it would be, in the very presence of victory, to break ranks and disband. If there were but one party in the state—if we were all earnestly and enthusiastically in favor of such measures as would bring prosperity to the commonwealth—if all the people could be made to understand that there is a mutuality of interests among them—no doubt another party would prove to be a wholesome as well as a profitable political investment, but there is an element of danger in our midst—an element that is as careless of its own interests as it is of the interests of others—and it is the irresponsibility of this element that must be guarded against. It is a great pity that the eloquent argument of Mr. Hartridge had not been delivered earlier in the campaign, so that it might have been circulated broadcast over the country. It is the most masterly summing up of the dangers that threaten the democracy through the success of independentism that has ever been delivered.

While we have no doubt of the triumph of the democracy in the first, yet it is very evident that the independents propose to make a decided effort to elect their man. They are all exceedingly active, and some of them are even hopeful. The democrats should not depend too much upon the party discipline which has heretofore made the district solid. They should work earnestly and faithfully for the nominee of the party, Hon. John C. Nicholls, whose address, following that of Mr. Hartridge, at the meeting to which we have alluded, was able and timely.

Coffee and Yellow Jack.

Considerable ado has been made, during the progress of the existing yellow fever epidemic, about the colored people being attacked with the disease. An idea, apparently borne out by facts, prevailed before and during the war that the negro was exempt from the yellow fever, and that no epidemic of that disease could affect him. When, since the war, the disease wherever it has appeared, has attacked colored people with increasing virulence at each recurring epidemic the press, the people, and some ill-informed physicians, have sought to charge the phenomenon upon the yellow fever and therefrom argue its increasing malignity, instead of giving the facts a fair chance in the matter. There are unquestionable facts in this matter that not only point a moral, but adorn a tale. They are not only peculiar, but important.

These things are certain, that cleanliness, temperance, due labor and regular, proper habits, are the four cardinal principles of health. These are conditions necessary everywhere to freedom from disease, particularly in those districts of the south where malarial complaints and influences are always at work. We believe that in the violation of these essentials to health is to be found the liability of the negro to the attacks of the yellow fever.

In his former state the negro was required to preserve a proper cleanliness of person, and his clothing, however poor, was always free from filth. He was required to keep his plantation cabins and quarters clean and free from accumulations of dirt and garbage. Wherever you went among negro quarters you encountered clean houses, well-swept yards and premises devoid of filth.

In those days of personal supervision of the habits of the colored man it was also found that the negro had little opportunity for drunkenness. Laws and custom forbade the selling of liquor to the slave, and his only hope for getting stimulants depended upon the willingness of his master. Christmas day, new year's day, the fourth of July and thanksgiving day were the four great occasions of the year when the negro had license to indulge his appetite for liquor, and upon those days he was given a carte blanche. He improved them, and during all the rest of the year felt no inconvenience from his abstention. The effects of liquor are always such as to render a person liable to attacks of disease, and especially of attacks from yellow fever. When the negro was free from full indulgence of his appetite for liquor he was free from the inroads of the yellow scourge.

Up to the date of his freedom the negro was accustomed to labor during certain hours and with a certain employment. He did so, as a matter of course, and his work was of a character to bring into play the most healthful agencies of his physical constitution. Labor makes health. As the laborer loses employment he loses the prerequisites to a continuance of health. Now, as a rule, the negro avoids labor and loafs to the full extent of his ability. Hence the exercise due and proper to the body has been abandoned, and upon weak and reduced physical constitutions the yellow fever is apt speedily to take hold.

Again, the negro in his former state was not allowed to dissipate and keep improper hours. "Nine o'clock bell! The patrol catch you!" was a familiar song in all the southern country. No colored man was allowed to be out at night without a proper pass, and so the proper amount of rest and healthful sleep was forced upon him. The result was that the negro, during his era of slavery in this country, proved to be the most healthful portion of our population.

These conditions of health, as the facts, the experience of southern observers and the statistics will show, have all been uniformly violated by the bulk of the southern negro population since the war. Personal uncleanliness and habits of sanitary neglect about the homes of people are the reasons for the prevalence of the yellow scourge. It is, therefore, neither strange nor matter for argument in favor of the increasing malignancy of the fever. The liability of the negro, and the mortality among the race, to the yellow fever are due wholly to the violation of these plain principles of health, and no reform can save them but adherence to well-known sanitary laws.

Mr. Tilden and the Cipher Dispatches.

The New York Tribune devoted page upon page to an attempt to prove Mr. Tilden guilty of participation in a scheme to secure by bribery the votes of Florida and South Carolina. Mr. Tilden met the charges with a denial as frank and explicit as the English language is capable of. The issue was thus made up. Now what does the Tribune do? It says that Mr. Tilden's denial, coming, to use its own words, from "a man of great ability and recognized position," is of no account; because, first, it came too late, when the fact is it was published on the morning following the appearance of the Tribune's last batch of so-called cipher dispatches; because, secondly, it covers too much, which, to say the least, is a queer method of reasoning; because, thirdly, it flatly contradicted Mr. Tilden's conduct, when even schoolboys know that Mr. Tilden has all along held that it was the American people, not he, who were cheated; and because, lastly, it brings not a scrap of evidence—in other words, Mr. Tilden should be required to prove his innocence, although not a particle of proof had been adduced to show that he is guilty.

The reply of the Tribune is pitiably weak—so weak that it arouses suspicion against the entire mass of dispatches. Their authenticity must become a matter of grave doubt in the minds of unprejudiced readers, when the Tribune fails to bring to the support of its charges one particle of proof, thereby virtually confessing it has none to bring. Mr. Tilden—a man "of recognized position"—presents a full and comprehensive denial, and yet not a bit of proof is forthcoming to establish the genuineness of the dispatches, the correctness of their translation, Mr. Tilden's connection with them, or even that the whole business from beginning to end is not a fabrication for partisan purposes. The attempt on the part of the Tribune to shuffle the burden of proof on to Mr. Tilden will make every man, of whatever politics, hesitate before he accepts any more of the Tribune's charges. The paragraphs of Mr. Reid's young men will not suffice at this stage of the proceedings. If the Tribune has proofs, now is the time to produce them. We have already shown that one of its South Carolina dispatches—one that it considered of especial importance—was a business dispatch that passed between a member of THE CONSTITUTION's staff and the general southern agent of the New York Herald, then stationed in Columbia—that its "H. W. Good" was none other than Mr. H. W. Grady, who wanted "some funds." With this fact within our knowledge, can we be expected to take the Tribune's unsupported word that its dispatches are genuine—that there has been no suppression, no alteration, no forced constructions, or no inaccuracies in translation—that the truth and only the truth has been presented? We are not as easily gulled as that, nor will any other man be who is not blinded by prejudice or unreasoning partisanship. The Tribune, by the very nature of its reply to Mr. Tilden's explicit denial, stands in fact self-condemned.

In the absence of proofs, it is impossible to escape the conviction that this whole business is a cunningly devised fabrication for party purposes. It is doubtless a desperate attempt to skake off the fatal "fraud issue" which confronts the republican party. Unless the democrats can be driven from their evident determination to carry the count of 1876 before the people, a republican presidential canvass is simply work thrown away. Every intelligent man knows that; and we shall be greatly surprised if the Tribune's cipher hullabaloo does not turn out to be a part of a scheme to prevent such a campaign. The hope is not so much to smirch Mr. Tilden as through him the democratic party—to lay the basis in short for a counter cry of "Fraud." The New York Evening Mail, an unrelenting republican paper, admits as much when it says: "We prefer to believe that Mr. Tilden has told the truth; that his peculiar character and surroundings exposed him to the style of operations that were conducted by his friends and familiars, without his knowledge, and that he is the victim of circumstances which were out of his control. And while we are willing, and even glad, to concede so much, let us hope that the campaign that began after the decision of the title to the presidency, by the only constitutional tribunal, will be brought to an end."

WHILE the independents and bogus greenbackers are pawing up the dirt and bellowing about fraud in the Barnesville convention, Colonel Stewart, who was defeated by the so-called "fraud," made a speech in Griffin the other day in which he announced himself satisfied with the action of the convention, and declared himself for Hammond. Surely, if he is satisfied, Mr. Arnold and his strikers ought to be. Why should the bogus greenbackers complain? Their attitude would have been the same if Colonel Stewart had been nominated. In that case they would have declared that Colonel Hammond had been defrauded, and we should have had no end of appeals to his friends to make a bolt. This sort of thing is worn out; it is frayed; it is too thin to talk about. If Colonel Stewart had been the nominee the same cry of fraud would have been raised, and the same arguments made to the Hammond men. As it is, while Hammond has been nominated, and while Colonel Stewart, actuated by the most patriotic and praiseworthy motives, acquiesces in the nomination, the independents, the republicans and the bogus greenbackers kick up a terrible fuss about fraud in the hope that some of the friends of Colonel Stewart may be misled. But as the latter has emphatically declared that he is satisfied with the nominee and with the nomination itself, it is not at all likely that the opponents of the democratic party will have many accessions from the ranks of his friends.

JOHN COCKERILL, of the Baltimore Gazette, can sit two thousand miles away and pick out the editorial garlic-eaters of the country.

THE rumor that Emory Speer has retired from the canvass in the ninth is probably untrue. And yet he might as well retire.

CORKER's defeat in the first district is assured. The gathering in Savannah last Friday night, and the speeches of Nicholls, Hartridge and Lawton, settled the matter.

WHILE we are thinking about it, we might as well ask our friends who are in attendance upon the fair to call around and see us.

WHY a man of J. G.'s reputation for dueling should retire to Europe is one of the mysteries of our modern system of chivalry.

WHY is it that Kunnel KeLancy Dane, the great English hostler, never resorts to foreign climes for Europecuperation? This matter should be looked into.

THE Baltimore Gazette says of Howard Carroll, of the New York Times, that he "should report in Washington at an early day as 'a bleeding captain.'" Cockerill doesn't know Howard as we know him here. He hunts after beer more strenuously and more effectually than he does after outrages, and he finds more of it. That truth is he writes more of the ku-kluxes that he doesn't find than of the beer he does find. Such is the man's infinite jest. He is in [illegible] and, taking everything into consideration, we gladly give him. [illegible] ditch Bourbon as [illegible] sells it, but he knows a [illegible] always ready to set up the cups.

JEREMY GERDING BENNETTA has retired to his European resorts. It is needless to add that he will become Gerding well.

IT should be distinctly remembered that Our Uncle Samuel is not a cipherer.

WILL those who believe that Dr. Felton's private secretary's husband will not be elected be kind enough to call around and see us some time shortly after the 8th of November. We will be in the humor to receive calls.

POSTSCRIPT.

MONROE county is almost solid for Hammond.

THE independents are all brokers—dead brokers.

MONROE would always do to tie to—or for a good man to tie to.

IN the second district, instead of Wade in it will be Wade out.

IT is not probable that Smithy Clayton will return to Madison until the war is over.

SOME enterprising newspaper ought to send Jim Redpath into the sunny south.

WADE is the republican candidate in the second. Who will be the candidate in the first?

COLONEL STEWART's speech in favor of Hammond will have a good effect.

HOWARD CARROLL's annual southern tour has begun. Thus far he has found more cocktails than ku-kluxes in the land.

IN NEW England any man that owns a hatchet or a shot-gun can become a widower whenever he chooses.

THE Burlington Hawkeye is beginning to believe that there are some right clever villains in the south.

E. C. WADE has been nominated for congress by the republicans of the second district. He proposes to out-Whitely Whitely, which will be a very hard thing to do.

IN the first district the rumor is that the radicals will be solid for Corker. Corker will make a good stopper for the republicans of that section.

WADE was nominated by D. F. Luke, F. F. Putney and John Few, of Albany—a body almost as imposing and as consequential as the one which made Arnold the victim of a misdirected ambition.

THE prophecy made by THE CONSTITUTION at the appearance of the radical candidates in the field at a very late day has been partially fulfilled. Wade has been nominated in the second district, and it remains to be seen who is to be the candidate in the fifth.

IT is rumored that Colonel Dud Hammond, of Forsyth, will shortly address the people of Atlanta upon the political issues of the day. Colonel Hammond was a member of the late constitutional convention, and is one of the most eloquent speakers in the state.

Importers want kid gloves entered at a rate the custom house men think is too low, hence the trouble. The merchant princes are highly indignant and a hand to hand fight is expected.

—The October report of the department of agriculture estimates this year's corn crop at 1,300,000,000 bushels. The yield of wheat will exceed 400,000,000 bushels—probably the greatest quantity of wheat ever produced in one year in any country—and the crop of oats will be finer than the very fine one of 1877.

—Mr. Whistler, the American artist in London, has made a quaint, characteristic portrait of Mr. Carlyle, for which he is said to have received $5,000. Both men live at Chelsea, where Mr. Whistler has just built himself a house as odd'y unlike other houses as the slight, nervous, picturesque artist is unlike other men.

—The Beauford (S. C.) Tribune of a recent date says: "A letter from New York to one of our citizens says: 'Who do you suppose came to her for some money the other day, to buy food, and this was the first time he had come? The caravan, consisting of sixteen men, one woman, and a number of small elephants, rhinoceroses, giraffes, ostriches, etc., has created a sensation in the German capital. The show will soon be in Paris.

—Henry Ward Beecher will probably lecture in England, Scotland and Ireland next summer. A bargain to that effect has been made between him and Hathaway & Pond, of the Boston lecture agency, and the contract is ready for the signatures. The plan is for fifty lectures, delivered within a period of three months, and Mr. Beecher is to receive $25 000 and have his traveling expenses paid. Major Pond will accompany him. It is said that this firm has cleared $20,000 by exhibiting the Plymouth pastor. Thomas Maguire, a California theater manager, planned and conducted Beecher's recent visit to the Pacific coast. He paid $1,000 each for ten lectures, and an additional $1,000 toward traveling expenses.

—In the death of Jefferson Davis, jr., the ex-president of the southern confederacy finds the "Davis" name extinct. The young man was his only son, and there is now no one of the blood-relatives of the ex-president living who bears the Davis name except himself. The Hon. Reuben Davis, who is a candidate for congress in Mississippi, is not a relative, as has been asserted. The son just deceased was quite a promising young man, who, as a "child of the regiment" during the war, was loved by all the soldiers. The boy then showed a decided military spirit, and has ever been the companion of his father in his journeys about the country in the last few years. The grief of this father must naturally be tinged with a peculiar poignancy.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Memphis Well Provided.

Memphis Avalanche.

The Howard association has nearly $200,000 in hand; the mayor has about $80,000; the Citizens' Relief committee has about $50,000—a grand total of $330,000. This sum of money is amply sufficient to feed the destitute people of Memphis and surrounding country until frost, even if a few perquisites are cut down. A most serious drain on the commissary is the supply of the servants of rich people. These well-to-do citizens fled and left their houses in charge of their servants, but the majority of these house-owners left neither money nor provisions for the support of their help. The charity of the world has been called upon to keep our people from starving. Most assuredly hundreds of thousands of dollars have left their property in charge of blacks, and never provided a dollar for their support. And yet, if the Citizens' Relief committee cut off the rations from these servants of rich men, what in God's name will they do? They faithfully guard the property of their employers. If their employers do not feed them, the relief committee must do it. There is no other alternative. The committee cannot and will not see them starve.

Awful Things in Store for Hon. Hill, New Orleans Picayune.

The elegant figure of the renowned Mrs. Jenks darkened yesterday the marble hall and other departments of the custom-house, to the great joy of her numerous friends and sympathizers in the famous granite building. This lady, who has already won a national reputation, war accompanied by her sister, who is also fair and lovely. Both have wandered far through the snows of the north and the magnolias of the south, and are well known. The mission of Mrs. Jenks, who wears the triple crown of enthusiasm, faith and perseverance, was to read to some of the gentlemen in the employ of the federal government a philippic she has written in answer to some severe strictures made against her by Senator Hill, of Georgia. Let Mrs. Jenks be heard. Let the senator learn that ladies must not be upbraided, even when they are in the wrong, otherwise the heavens will be hung in black.

The Cipher Dispatches no Great Hit.

Washington Correspondence Baltimore Sun, ind.

The New York Tribune has not, after all, made any great hit with its cipher dispatches. Some of these dispatches were, it is generally believed here, manufactured to suit the occasion, and those which are genuine were of course obtained through means which cannot be characterized as honorable. The Tribune, through its agencies here and elsewhere, has been striving desperately to get up a sensation over these discoveries, but it cannot have any great reason to congratulate itself beyond the fact that Mr. Tilden has deemed it incumbent on him to notice them to an extent as to deny any complicity with schemes to pay the returning boards for not defeating the will of the people. However it may be sought to convey an impression to the contrary, it is nevertheless the fact that the publication of these cipher telegrams has not caused any sensation to speak of here.

He Could but Would Not.

Philadelphia Times, ind.

One thing is certain if Mr. Tilden had desired to buy the presidency outright and gone into market for the purpose he would not have failed, for nobody who knows anything about the matter can be unaware that it was up for sale to the highest bidder as soon as it fell into the hands of the southern returning boards. He had the money and needed only to spend it in response to the offers of sale that poured in upon the national committee. Nor was his opportunity gone when the canvass of the corrupt returning board was completed. He had only to go to Washington with his money bags, for the carpet-bag congressmen were there anxious for the ravishing to begin, and each anxious to be the first ravished. The fact is he not president to-day is because he did not choose to buy the title. If other hands were as clean as his are clean of bribery he would now be in the white house

Poetry on the "Prevailing."

Chattanooga Times.

Sam. W. Small, of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, is making deserved reputation by his verse-ality treatment of special and peculiar incidents in the history of the yellow fever scourge. He has the mental acumen, knowledge of human nature and acute human sympathy which enable them to sift the gold from the dross in the lower strata of the great human mind, and while soundly admiring the presence and preeminence of the dross, by poetic alchemy and analysis he gives us to see the specks and spangles and solid nuggets of the pure and shining material imbedded in the gross and unlovely rock. Mr. Small has a rich lode, and no man in the country is more capable of working it with profit to his future reputation, and for the pleasure of those who know that a hero is sometimes hid under the garb of a poet, and that heroes and martyrs are not always saints.

Something Behind that Will Leak Out.

Macon Telegraph, dem.

In our columns to-day will be found a card from Mr. Tilden on the subject of cipher dispatches, in which he embodies as direct, circumstantial and sweeping a denial of, or art or part in them, in any other attempt to influence corruptly the returns of the election, as if it is possible to frame in words. And in the course of his denial he throws out some weighty suggestions, which are obliged to address themselves to honest people with peculiar force. There is some development behind these so-called cipher dispatches, which will probably leak out in time and plague their inventors. The men who stole the presidency are not too good for any villainy.

Grant is Behind the Cipher Dispatches.

Louisville Courier-Journal, dem.

What motive can the radicals have for keeping Tilden perpetually before the country but to injure the great party of which he is a leader and has been a life-long member? Their sole idea is, by forgery and lying, to make Tilden out as bad as Grant, and, obtaining democratic assent to this, to thus secure a certain condonation in favor of the man they are going to run for president in 1880. For years the republicans have never dug a pit the democrats did not stumble into. They are now digging a pit, and, by a sort of fatuity, the democrats evince a desire to march up in column and jump into it.

Fair Play Demanded.

Detroit Free Press, dem.

While the democracy has nothing, as a party, to gain or lose by Mr. Tilden's conviction or acquittal, it has the right to demand that the man who has been its trusted and honored leader shall have the poor privilege accorded to the meanest criminal of being presumed innocent until proven guilty. It has a right also to demand, and it does emphatically demand, that no amount of dust raised in pursuing Mr. Tilden shall be permitted to blind the public eye as to the corruption and fraud by which the republican party holds to-day the executive power of the nation. To the justice of both these demands we believe the people will accede.

Bought for Hayes.

Detroit Free Press, dem.

That Samuel J. Tilden honestly carried Florida is conceded on all sides since the investigation. The vote was given to Hayes, and the republicans now claim that the canvassers were not only approached, but actually approached with bribes. It may be shown, or it may not be, that Mr. Tilden's agent's without his authority or with it, offered to buy the canvassing board in whole or in part. But whether it is shown or not, the fact that a board confessedly venal decided contrary to the facts and the law is as conclusive evidence as the people want that the vote of Florida was bought for Hayes.

Speaker Randall's Successor.

Augusta Chronicle.

In the forty-sixth congress, as in the forty-fifth, the candidate for speaker who receives anything like the support of the south will not have failed. The control of the office is in the hands of the southern representatives if they can agree upon a candidate. The southern vote elected Mr. Randall before, and it is highly probable that it will be given to him again. To him the south is principally indebted for the defeat of the Force bill in 1875; in appointing his committees he has shown the greatest consideration for the south, and is not likely to lose the support of any considerable number of southern members.

The Northeastern railroad has been doing a good business. The reports of the president and superintendent are extraordinarily satisfactory to those interested in the road, as well as to the people of Northeast Georgia generally. The gross earnings were upwards of $18,000, and the percentage of current expenses on the gross receipts was fifty-three. This, we learn, is the best exhibit of any road in the state—the best so far being the Atlanta and West Point road, whose ratio was fifty-eight. The company has paid all the interest on its bonds, all of its current expenses, and has a good surplus remaining. The road-bed is in first-class order, the rolling stock good, and a new engine has been purchased in the last few months.

Griffin News: Mr. Os. Williams, a Spalding county farmer, has on his place, a few miles from the city, two great curiosities in the way of chickens. In many respects, as in form, habits, etc., they are in no respect different from their fellows. In the place of feathers, however, they are covered all over with a thick matting of wool, which, in the language of our informant, is as "soft as a cotton sample." They are attracting no little interest in the neighborhood, and people are coming for miles to see them. In all probability the curiosities will be placed on exhibition at the approaching Middle Georgia fair, where all doubting Thomases or anybody else can freely examine them and test the credibility of this account.

To the Hon. William Gibson.

MR. DEAR SIR—I am not surprised that you have published a reply to my letter contained in THE CONSTITUTION of October 3d. But the character of that reply does indeed astonish me. As no one has ever been reckless enough to charge you with possessing what every judge of your elevation should have—a liberal education—I shall generously overlook the palpable violations of simple rules of grammar and rhetoric with which your reply abounds.

I am not personally your enemy, and therefore the independence of your expressions shall not arouse in me feelings of resentment, nor disarm me of my dignity. On the contrary, the misery of your condition profoundly stirs the remains of pity I feel for you. Even an inferior luminary "hastening to its setting" is an object of compassion—as much so, in a human sense, as the most magnificent that ever shed his descending glory over the entire circuit of the heavens. Therefore, pardon me for repeating—the distress of your declining fortunes entitles you to the general pity.

The very violence of your language betrays your extremity. You evidently feel the enormity of your political transgression, and begin to realize the hopefulness of your present candidacy. In your madness and desperation you trust everything to a bold denial of facts in one instance, and a feeble palliation in another. You also employ epithets that are ill-suited to the dignity of your position, if not to your personal character, but these poor props shall not avail your sinking fortunes. They shall but serve to discover the poverty and utter wretchedness of your defense.

The people of Augusta must determine whether your memory or your conscience has left you, when you state that you "never were a member, or in any way sympathized with that distinguished body known as the loyal league of Augusta."

It might well for you to remember that you were most unpleasantly conspicuous at the time when that organization flourished. Your tortuous course was carefully watched by a suffering and outraged people. You were in the "charmed circle" of loyal leaguers, and were heard, upon a certain occasion, making a speech to that body. For evidence upon this point I might call to the stand two witnesses of unquestioned credibility and of the highest respectability—two of the most prominent officers upon the present police force of Augusta. You may not have been a formal member of the league, but you were at least a sharer of its confidence. I might here break out into the bitterest reproach for your unmanly denial of past associations, but such is not my purpose, and therefore I desist.

Further, you were admitted into the secret caucuses of the republican party, where none but the most outspoken republicans were allowed to enter. Upon one occasion when you attended one of those secret caucuses, in Atlanta, pending Mr. Blodgett's candidacy for the senate of the United States, you were assailed by one in that caucus who doubted the honesty of your motives. You then stood up and insisted that you were in good faith a republican, and thereafter strenuously advocated the claims of Mr. Blodgett.

My witness here is a republican, but one whom the people of Augusta respected, and in the sincerity of whose convictions they have long since learned to confide. I refer to the efficient and courteous postmaster of this city.

It is unnecessary for me to offer one word of comment upon this matter, further than to say that it must arouse the indignation of all honest republicans when you speak of the charges of your former republican affiliations as "vile slanders."

Are you not sometimes alarmed into reflection? Do you not sometimes dread the thunders of the general indignation?

The public memory, like a fierce luminary, rises upon your course and

"Paris his light through every guilty hole."

Are you not then afraid that the people of "your native Georgia" have forgotten your base record in the contemplation of the political infamy that attends your subsequent career? As you live lift yourself into the public view, with the horrid remains of your political adventures clinging to you, does not your own wonderful assurance tremble and sometimes threaten to give way?

Your speak tauntingly, in your virulent letter, even now of the "so-called democracy of Georgia," and yet you will kneel and beg the representatives of that democracy to clothe you with the ermine. Does it not occur to you that you may be relying too much, in this contest, upon the wiles and devices of a fertile, cunning and oily tongue? Do you expect, by your vain words, to wheedle the members of the general assembly from the support of a fairer and more acceptable man?

Your malignant expressions concerning one who has long since gone to his final resting-place ill become you, above all other men. When you apply such epithets as "arch traitor and perjurer" to the memory of Andrew Johnson, do you not feel the keen bark of self-reproach entering your own heart? Does not a sense of terrible guilt steal over you? It is an awful thing, sir, to invade with hostile intent that sacred presence of the dead. And what a doubly terrible thing it is in you, sir, to attempt to excuse to the people of "your native Georgia" your conduct in the convention which nominated General Grant, by ruthlessly tearing aside the veil that separates life from death and abusing the memory of Andrew Johnson.

Whatever may be your opinion of the two men, the people of the south will always prefer the latter to General Grant. Nor will it ever be in your power to educate them down to an administration of General Grant. Your man of "peace" was to the south, [illegible] of war in fact.

But Andrew Johnson was not nominated by the democracy in New York. The honor and the [illegible] hope of that great party fell, in 1868, upon Mr. Seymour. You were a member of the convention at Chicago in that same year which nominated his opponent, and you cannot now defend your cause by heaping gratuitous insults upon the grave of Andrew Johnson. But I may at least compliment you for your valiant defense of General Grant—for it exhibits one solitary act of consistency in you.

You are pleased to refer to other appointees of Governor Bullock, who now occupy positions of great honor and distinction in the state, and ask who bent their knees. I reply no one. In those cases no knees were bent. Eminent merit secured their appointment. Yours was the reward of political servitude.

No one who knows me has ever charged me with being a "sycophantic supporter" of any man. My constant business is to lament my extreme independence. Be assured that neither Colonel Jones nor Judge Snead has aught to do with what I write of you. It must be a source of deep regret to you that you have no friends who might take up your cause and thus save you from your most fatal enemy—your own pen.

I deplore the necessity of this letter, and I take leave of you with no personal feeling against you. I think it eminently "toward the general good" that you should not be elected to the exalted position you now occupy. The blame of your long tenure of that office must be visited upon Governor Bullock, who rewarded your questionable services.

The light you have shed upon the law has been feeble, indeed. Your place in the firmament of greatness is obscure and uncertain. As you go down the western slope, you will emit a transient, unsteady gleam of light. But you will soon be forgotten in the general contemplation of another more splendid orb rising on the opposite horizon. BURKE.

AUGUSTA, GA., October 17, 1878.

M. C. & J. F. Kiser & Co.

It has been our pleasure several times during the past year or two to write frequent articles concerning the business of M. C. & J. F. Kiser & Co. We have done this with pleasure, because we felt that in writing up the history of this house we were writing up the most progressive phase of Atlanta's history.

During last August we went through this immense establishment from the basement to the fifth story, and we saw the largest stock of goods ever put together, in our opinion, in any Georgia store. Major Kiser explained that they had laid in an extra large stock, as they expected a heavy trade, and wished to have enough to carry them through until January. This was in August. By the end of September this enormous stock was so depleted that they had to hurry their orders to market and replenish heavily in every department. They sold more goods during the month of September than was by any house in Georgia, or, we believe, any house south of Baltimore. Despite the immense drain made on their business, however, their buyers have been so active that their store actually seems to be better stocked with goods now than it was on last August. Stepping on the elevator yesterday we paid a visit to each of the five floors, and found everything packed to the utmost. It is expected that the business of the house will equal in October the large sales of September. It is already demonstrated that the year's business will go sharply over a million of dollars. This is surely cause for congratulation in Atlanta—that she has a house that sells over one million of dollars per annum, and several others that sell over half a million. It is a cause of congratulation to the Messrs. Kiser that they have builded up this enormous business in the short space of less than ten years.

DIRECT TRADE WITH EUROPE.

The experiment made by Messrs. Kiser & Co. in direct trade with Europe has developed beyond their most sanguine expectations. They have demonstrated that they can buy goods from first hands in Europe and import them direct at a heavy margin over other purchasers. Major Kiser visited the principal markets of England and the continent in person, and established business relations with the leading houses. He arranged to buy specialties from the markets most noted for their production. Buying in considerable quantity at first, they have made several heavy importations since, and have more than once been forced to dispatch orders by cable. They have not only secured a better line of goods by direct importation than they could otherwise get, but they know that everything is precisely what it assumes to be, and they get a fine margin in price. One of their new importations of alpacas, known as the compass brand, double warp, is the finest article of the kind on the market. It is established beyond doubt that direct trade with Europe can be carried on at great profit from Atlanta.

VISITORS TO THE FAIR,

and especially merchants, should not fail to call and go through this immense dry goods house before they leave the city. They will meet with a hearty welcome. An elevator plies between each floor, and every pains will be taken to make the visit worth the trouble. The members of the firm and the traveling men all hope to see all of their customers and friends, and to make many new acquaintances. This is a house of which Atlanta is heartily proud, and one she willingly put it up as the model house of the city.

Mark A. Hardin for Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Will the legislature act wise and re-elect Colonel Hardin clerk of the house of representatives? He is certainly the best qualified man to fill the place in Georgia, and it is to be hoped that the members of the general assembly will bear this in mind. Colonel M. A. Hardin, if elected, will save the people money by his experience, having been clerk of the house for years, and understands all the business connected with the office. ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

For upward of thirty years Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children. It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves wind colic, regulates the bowels, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cause An old and well-tried remedy. 25 cents a bottle.

LIVER REMEDIES.

DR. M. W. CASE'S Liver Remedy AND BLOOD PURIFIER

Tonic and Cordial.

This is not a patent medicine, but is prepared under the direction of Dr. M. W. Case, from his favorite prescription, which in an extensive practice of over twenty-seven years he has found most effective in all cases of disordered liver or impure blood. It is

ANTI-BILIOUS.

It acts directly upon the liver, restoring it when diseased to its normal condition; and in regulating the activity of this great gland every other organ of the system is benefited. In Blood Diseases it has no equal as a purifier. It improves digestion, and assists nature to eliminate all impurities from the system; and while it is the cheapest medicine in the market, it is also superior to all known remedies. While it is more effectual than Blue Mass, it is mild and perfectly safe, containing nothing that can in the slightest degree injure the system. It does not sicken or give pain; neither does it weaken the patient nor leave the system constipated, as do most other medicines.

It Cures Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Bilious Fever, Headache, Sick Headache, Water-Brash, Heartburn, Sick Stomach, Canadian Colic, Yellow Fever, Neuralgia, Palpitation of the Heart, Female Irregularities and Weakness, all Skin and Blood Diseases, Worms, Fever and Ague, and Constipation of the Bowels.

In small doses it is also a sure cure for Chronic Diarrhœa.

Taken two or three times a day, it prevents Yellow Fever, Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever, Cholera, and Small-pox.

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DOCTOR Use Dr. Case's Liver Remedy and Blood Purifier, a pleasant Tonic and Cordial, ANTI-BILIOUS.

And save your doctor bills. Only 25 cts. a bottle. It is the most effective and valuable medicine ever offered to the American people. As soon as its merits become known, its use becomes universal in every community. No family will be without it after having once used it, so great its value. It has proved an inestimable blessing to thousands who have used it, bringing back health and strength to those who were seemingly at death's door. Prepared at the Laboratory of the Home Medicine Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Price per Bottle, 25c. Extra Large Size, 75c.

The Constitution.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 22, 1878.

THROUGH THE CITY.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Thos. H. Whitaker, of LaGrange, is in the city.

Judge J. S. Boynton, of Griffin, was in the city yesterday.

Judge Claiborn Snead, of Augusta, is in the city on a visit.

Judge R. F. Lyon, of Macon, is in the city upon professional business.

Mr. Charley H. Phinizy, of Augusta, is here to see the sights at the fair.

Hon. Ben. C. Yancey, of Athens, member-elect to the lower house of the next general assembly, is registered at the Kimball.

Colonel B. G. Lockett, of Albany, one of the most extensive planters of that section of the state, is a guest of the Kimball.

Hon. Amos T. Akerman, of Cartersville, is in the city in attendance upon the United States court.

Mr. England, of Nashville, Tenn., is in the city with two car loads of horses which will be shown at our fair.

Mr. J. Cooper Nesbit, of Dade county, is in the city. He will exhibit a large drove of cattle at our fair.

Mr. Frank J. Cohen, of the Rome Daily Bulletin, is in the city writing up the fair for his paper.

Matt O'Brien, of Columbus, is in our city, seeing the sights. Matt is a bird of rare plumage, and has plenty of friends in our city.

Mr. Mote Tuggle, of Lexington, Ky., arrived in this city Sunday with a car load of fine trotting horses to be exhibited at our fair. It is probable that several of them will be entered in some of our races.

Mr. Smith Clayton, editor of the Athens Watchman, is in our city in attendance upon our fair. He and Tinnie Rucker have smoked the political pipe of peace.

Mr. F. P. Gray, of the Cartersville Express, was in the city yesterday. He says that Lester's victory is now more certain than ever, and that the empty-sleeved hero is gaining votes every day.

Colonel William H. Moore, of the Augusta Evening News, sometimes called by the rude boys "Billie," passed through the city Sunday last, on a visit to his old home in Alabama. He will return to-day and spend the week in seeing the sights at our fair.

SIDEWALK NOTES.

There will be three races to-day.

The entries for to-day's races closed at 12 m. last night.

The latest improved Phonograph can be seen on the fair grounds to-day.

French pools will be sold to-day at our course for the first time.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION will have an office at the fair grounds.

Tuggle was out driving some of his best roadsters yesterday.

The first day of the fair opened up in a most attractive style.

Political discussions will be suspended this week in Atlanta.

Atlanta was perfectly alive with visitors yesterday from all sections of the country.

The Merchants' bank will keep open all the week for the transaction of business as usual.

Visitors to the fair must go to Dr. Schumann's, on Whitehall street, and get mineral and soda water.

The various railroads running into our city will bring in large crowds of visitors to-day.

Put your money on the winning horse, if you can pick him out, and you will be happy.

There will be a very important meeting of the Knights of Pythias to-night. See notice.

Mr. Frank Mills yesterday put up a letter box on the fair grounds, from which mail will be taken twice a day during the fair.

There have been thirty-five elegant new rooms just finished at the Kimball house and superbly furnished. The hotel is now in excellent condition and is justly popular.

We are requested to state that the Ed. Jones who was convicted of larceny is not Eddie E. Jones, the polite and courteous young darkey at the reading room.

Visitors to the fair and other strangers, as well as citizens, are cordially invited by the superintendent to call out and see the water works. It is a pleasant ride, and there is much to interest all who will go.

Mr. John M. Graham's pamphlet, giving a full history of the case of Mr. Block in the Central Presbyterian church, is out. It is a book of great interest to Presbyterians, and others interested in the dancing question.

SENTENCE DAY.

RECEIVING THE WAGES OF SIN.

A Sentence to Swing on the Cross-Tree, Another to the Penitentiary for Life, and Others for Shorter Terms.

In the superior court, on Saturday, there was a scene seldom enacted in this community, and a repetition of which we hope may not occur for many years to come.

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

James Alford was sentenced to death. He is the poor laboring man who, in a fit of drunken desperation, and without adequate cause, stabbed a man named Shuler to death, some time in September. The court room was crowded to hear the sentence passed.

WHAT ALFORD SAID.

When asked if he had anything to say why the sentence should not be passed upon him, Alford arose and tremblingly said:

All that I have to say is that I tried every way in the world to avoid a difficulty with the man, and tried to get away from him, and he kept following me up. I had nothing against him, and I am sorry this thing happened. As to his telling me he had no weapon, I never heard it. I was trying to befriend him and get him off the street, and I didn't see no use for a man to quarrel with a man for that. I left him and he followed me up. I never had a difficulty with a man before in my life.

Judge Hillyer, in passing sentence, used the following

IMPRESSIVE WORDS:

"I do not find it in my heart to say anything that would lacerate the feelings of the condemned man, or add to his sufferings. It is the purpose of the court to administer justice with mercy, and I know that in the trial of this case the utmost pains were taken to arrive at the truth. It is a case of killing with a knife—an ordinary pocket-knife—somewhat larger, perhaps, than usual. The evidence was that eight stabs were inflicted. The man who was killed was unarmed and so intoxicated as to be practically helpless. It was a case of murder as found by the jury. The lesson that is taught by the results here had is this—and I take the occasion of calling attention to it with the hope of doing good by what I say: Let all violent men consider their ways and resolve to avoid a similar fate. That is the reason the law inflicts the death penalty in cases of murder, and let all violent men understand that the law is wise enough and strong enough to overtake and punish crime. If I should talk all day I could not make this fact appear any stronger, but I will add the expression of an earnest hope that it may be a long time before blood is again shed in our streets and this court called upon to impose a penalty like this."

THE SENTENCE.

STATE VS. JAMES ALFORD. Fall term, 1878. Murder—verdict, "Guilty"—9th October, 1878.

Whereupon it is considered, ordered and adjudged by the court that you, James Alford, the said defendant, be taken from the bar of this court, where you now are, back to the common jail of this county whence you last came; that you be there in said jail kept in safe and close confinement until Thursday, the 12th day of December next, of the present year 1878, and that on said day you be taken from the said jail to some suitable and convenient place, within 400 feet of said jail building, to be so far as necessary provided by his honor, the Ordinary, and that between the hours of 10 in the forenoon and 2 in the afternoon of said last named day, you be then and there by the sheriff of said county, or his deputy, hung by the neck until you are dead: said execution to be be strictly in private and witnessed only by the executing officer and a sufficient guard, your kindred and relations, with such clergymen and friends as you may desire—and may the great and good God have mercy on you!

Sentence dated this 19th day of October, 1878.

GEO. HILLYER, Judge S. C., A. C.

The judge also passed the following

OTHER SENTENCES:

On Robert Smith, found guilty of the murder of James J. Skinner, at Silver Springs, July 4, 1878, and recommended to mercy by the jury—imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

On Bud Franklin, found guilty of stabbing, six months in the county jail and $50 fine.

On Samuel Webb, found guilty of cow-stealing, with a recommendation to mercy, two months in jail.

Fred Smith, found guilty of burglary in the night, five years in the penitentiary.

Motions for new trials are made in all cases except Webb and Franklin.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings of Last Night's Session.

The city council of Atlanta met last night at the usual hour in their chamber at the city hall. There were present Mayor N. L. Angier, Aldermen Castleberry and Mitchell, Councilmen Boring, Maher, Dallas, Werner, Buice, Hanye, Maddox, and Crew.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted without a change.

PETITIONS.

Of E. D. Cheshire, for reduction of personal tax. Referred to committee on tax.

Of T. J. Bowers, to be allowed to conduct a photograph gallery free of license. Referred to committee on tax.

Of Johnson & Morris to be allowed to open a saloon for the sale of spirituous liquors on West Peters street. Referred to committee on police.

Of Jno. W. Evans, to be allowed to peddle upon the streets. Granted.

Of W. W. Anderson, to be allowed to open a saloon for the sale of liquors on West Peters street. Referred to committee on police.

Of C. J. Weinmeister to be allowed to serve wine to the guests of his restaurant after twelve o'clock at night during fair week. Granted.

Of W. J. Williams asking that the license of butchers to sell meat and vegetables be amended. Referred to committee on tax.

Of Pelligrinni & Castleberry asking that terra cotta sewer-pipes, manufactured as per contract with the city and now on hand, be received and paid for by said city at the price in said contract agreed upon. Referred to committee on sewers and drains.

Of Colonel N. J. Hammond for payment of attorney's fees. Referred to committee on finance and water-works.

Of J. O. Perkins, secretary of the board of health, asking that the sewer on McDonough street be repaired. Referred to committee on sewers and drains.

Of F. Richter asking that $4 paid by him for street tax be refunded. Referred to committee on tax.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEE.

Committee on police reported favorable to petition of Mrs. Nancy Anderson to open a saloon on Decatur street. Also, favorable to petition of Sciples & Sons to keep on hand three cars of wood. Adopted.

Committee on sewers and drains reported favorably to resolution offered by Councilman Buice to put down fifteen feet of sewer pipe on Moore street. Also favorable to petition of board of education to put in a water pipe at the Walker street school. Also, favorable to petition of the board of education relative to putting in a sewer pipe at the Marietta street school. Adopted.

Committee on gas reported adverse to petition of W. H. Rice to have a lamp put up at the corner of Harris & Calhoun streets. Also, adverse to petition of H. Van Valkenstein relative to putting up an oil lamp at the corner of Haynes and Mitchell streets. Also, adverse to the petition of J. C. Hendrix, Madison Bell and others for the putting up of a lamp at the crossing of Luckie and Simpson streets. Also, adverse to petition of W. C. Huff, J. P. Dean and others, for the erection of a street lamp at the northeast corner of Mills and Venable streets. Adopted.

Committee on tax reported favorable to petition of Jesse W. Jackson, agent for Mary C. Armstrong, for a reduction of tax on lot on Johnson street. Adopted.

Councilman English, chairman of the committee on finance, recommend the pay ment of the pay-roll, amounting to $2,834.63

Several resolutions were offered and acted upon. None of them were of any importance. City council covered itself with glory by adjourning shortly before eight, making at least one soul happy. An invitation was tendered the body to visit the engine house of steam fire company No. 5 and enjoy a keg of beer, which invitation was accepted by many of the members with thanks.

Conductor Robert R. Stallings has returned from the meeting of the Conductor's Life association, recently held in Montreal. This excellent body of gentlemen is well remembered by our citizens. Conductor Stallings brings back many expressions of kindness from the knights of the punch. We are glad to welcome him safely home.

Owing to the pressing demand for my stock of Carriages I have made no exhibition of Carriages, Buggies, etc., at the Fair Grounds. I have on hand, however, at No. 15 Broad street, a small lot of my best work, and I challenge comparison for style, durability and perfectness over any that can be exhibited. In the manufacture of my stock I use only the very best material and employ only the most skilled workmen. Inferior work is offered at lower prices, but those who really want a good article know it is false economy to purchase a worthless vehicle, no matter at how low a figure. I invite the public to inspect my stock and compare my prices with those of all first-class Carriage manufacturers.

Well-Toned Systems.

Systems toned and renovated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are most effectually defended from disease. That supreme invigorant soon overcomes that distressing feebleness consequent upon ailments which impoverish the blood and relax the muscles. Vigor, appetite, sleep return to the wasted frame, and every physical faculty gains greater activity through its benign influence. Nor is this all, for the Bitters have a most genial and cheering effect upon the mind of the despondent invalid, which is the natural effect of the increased bodily vitality which they produce. Nervous symptoms disappear in consequence of the use of this medicine, and the evil consequences sure to result from a premature decay of the physical energies are averted. Dyspepsia, liver complaints, rheumatic ailments, urinary and uterine irregularities, malarial diseases, and many other disordered conditions of the system, are remedied by the Bitters.

The certainty and reliability of the monthly drawings of the Louisiana State Lottery Company have received during the raging of the epidemic a pretty severe test. Many persons were afraid that the drawings would be postponed, and others apprehensive that they could not get any response to their letters; but the management of this sterling institution has never scaled or postponed a drawing since its incorporation in 1868, and has established a reputation for integrity and regularity of management unprecedented in the history of similar enterprises.

DAVID H. DOUGHERTY,

35 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

Dry Goods, Notions, Trimming, Fancy Goods, Furnishing Goods, Shoes, Hats, Etc.

I run two departments that are entirely separate from each other. I buy all my goods for my wholesale room from Agents, Importers and Manufacturers, for CASH. I keep a resident buyer in the Northern Markets all the time, and when he sees a line of goods selling for less than their real value, he ships them to me, and I soon place them before my customers, UNDER MY SMALL PROFIT PLAN.

Dress Goods.

The largest stock in the market, including all the latest French Novelties, Silks, Satins, Velvets, Alpacas, Cashmeres, Tamise, Henriettas, etc. Also, good variety Damesae Silks.

Cloaks.

These goods I have manufactured expressly for my own trade, and selling the immense quanty that I do, in my wholesale house, enables me to offer them to the public at a saving of 20 per cent,

I also have an immense stock of Shawls, Blankets, Bed Spreads, Quilts, Comforts, Shoes, etc., which I am offering at very low prices.

I buy my Cashmeres by the solid package and in great variety. In this way I save one-fourth in buying, and can satisfy you that you can save the same by buying them of me.

Others may imitate me, but none can compete with my goods and prices.

What is Portaline?

This question is thus briefly and truthfully answered. Portaline, or Tabler's Vegetable Liver Powder, derives its name from the fact that it regulates those portals of the body through which the most dangerous diseases make their entrance into the human system. Simple roots and herbs, for which we are indebted to bountiful nature, have been scientifically combined, and presented as a cure to all suffering with Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia and all diseases arising from torpid liver.
